Detailed Action

Status of Claims:

Claims 7-15, 17, 27-31 are pending in this Office Action.

Claims 1-6, 16, 18-26 are cancelled.

Foreign Priority

Receipt is acknowledged of papers submitted on August 27, 2000 under 35 U.S.C. 119(a)-(d), which papers have been placed of record in the file. Attention is directed to the fact that the date for which foreign priority is claimed is not the date of the filed application acknowledged in the oath or declaration. The priority date of 6/23/98 is given priority.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed in the amendment filed 3/22/05, have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Applicant's invention as claimed:

Claims 7-11, 17, 30-31 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by U.S. Patent No 6,085,186 by Christianson et al (referenced as "Chris").

Regarding claim 7, a distributed platform for coordinating user access to information provided by content service providers (Chris: col. 2, lines 39-49), the platform comprising:

- (a) a user interface (Chris: col. 4, lines 38, 44-45);
- (b) a first advertising board for advertising services of information brokers (Chris: col. 4, lines 46-47; col. 7, lines 35-46; wrapper DB);
- (c) a first searching agent for searching the first advertising board for services based on the request from the user (Chris: col. 4, lines 46-47, selects relevant sources);

Application/Control Number: 09/701,194

Art Unit: 2155

(d) a second advertising board for advertising the services of information content suppliers (Chris: col. 4, lines 46-48; the source itself);

- (e) a second searching agent for searching the second advertising board for available services based on results of the search of the first advertising board and the request from the user (Chris: col. 4, lines 46-48; formats the query for the sources and receives responses), and
- (f) means for providing the results of the search of the second advertising board from the second advertising board to the first advertising board, and transferring the results from the first advertising board to the user interface through the first searching agent (Chris: col. 4, lines 46-50).

Regarding claim 8, a distributed platform as in claim 7, wherein the first and second advertising boards are distributed (Chris: Fig. 3 and col. 11, lines 11-17).

Regarding claim 9, a distributed platform as in claim 7, wherein a plurality of first and second advertising boards are provided each of which advertises the services available in a particular market (Chris: col. 7, lines 65- col. 8 line 10; relevant sources).

Regarding claim 10, a distributed platform as in claim 7, wherein means are provided for interrogating the user to determine specific preferences (Chris: col. 4, lines 31-36; Fig. 2B; col. 7, lines 1-7).

Regarding claim 11, a distributed platform as in claim 10, wherein the specific preferences comprise where and/or how and/or when the information found by the second searching agent, is to be communicated to the user (Chris: col. 6, lines 17-39; where is the URL; Fig. 2A and 2B).

Regarding claim 17, a distributed platform for coordinating user access to information provided by content service provider (Chris: col. 2, lines 39-49), the platform comprising:

- (a) a user interface fir receiving a request from a user (Chris: col. 4, lines 38, 44-45);
- (b) a content service provider advertising board for advertising services of content service providers (Chris: col. 4, lines 46-48; the source itself);
- (c) a first searching agent for searching the content service provider advertising board for services, based on the request from the user (Chris: col. 4, lines 46-48, formats the query for the sources and receives responses);
- (d) means for providing the results of the search of the content service provider advertising board to the user (Chris: col. 4, lines 46-50);
- (e) a broker advertising board for advertising the services of brokers that act as intermediaries between the content service provider and the user (Chris: col. 4, lines 46-47; col. 7, lines 35-46; wrapper DB); and
- (f) a second searching agent for searching the broker advertising board for available services based on the request from the user (Chris: col. 4, lines 46-47; selects relevant sources), wherein the second searching agent identifies a suitable broker based on the request from the user and the first searching agent is associated with that identified broker so that the first Application/Control Number: 09/701,194 searching agent searches the content service provider advertising board for services based on the identified broker as well as the request from the user (Chris: col. 7, lines 65- col. 8, line 10).

Regarding claim 30, a distributed platform for processing a user request for information (Chris: col. 2, lines 39-49), the platform comprising:

- (a) a user interface for receiving a user request for information (Chris: col. 4, lines 38, 44-45);
- (b) a service agent board for advertising services of a plurality of service agents (Chris: col. 4, lines 46-47; col. 7, lines 35-46; wrapper DB);
- (c) a customer agent for searching the service agent board and selecting at least one of service agent from the plurality of service agents based on the received user request (Chris: col. 4, lines 46-47; selects relevant sources); and
- (d) a customer supplier agent board for advertising the services of information content suppliers (Chris: col. 4, lines 46-48; the source itself);

wherein the at least one selected service agent selects at least one information content provider from the customer supplier agent board, and the at least one selected information content provider provides information based on the received user request to the at least one selected service agent which in turn provides the information to the customer agent (Chris: col. 4, lines 46-50).

Regarding claim 31, a distributed platform for co-ordinating user access to information provided by content service providers (Chris: col. 2, lines 39-49), the, the platform comprising:

- (a) a user interface for receiving a request from a user (Chris: col. 4, lines 38, 44-45);
- (b) a first advertising board for advertising services of information brokers (Chris: col. 4, lines 46-47; col. 7, lines 35-46; wrapper DB);
- (c) a first searching agent for searching the first advertising board and selecting a particular information broker based on the request from the user (Chris: col. 4, lines 46-47; selects relevant sources);
- (d) a second advertising board for advertising the services of information content suppliers (Chris: col. 4, lines 46-48; the source itself);
- (e) a second searching agent for searching the second advertising board based on the request from the user, the second searching agent being selected by the selected information broker (Chris: col. 4, lines 46-48; formats the query for the sources and receives responses);

wherein the results of the search of the second advertising board are provided from the second searching agent to the first searching agent, and then transferred from the first searching agent to the user interface (Chris: col. 4, lines 46-50).

Claims 12-15, 27-29 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable by U.S. Patent No 6,085,186 by Christianson et al (referenced as "Chris") in view of U.S. Patent No. 5,682,482 by Burt et al.

Art Unit: 2155

Regarding claim 12,

The Chris reference teaches a distributed platform as in claim 7 involving finance (col. 6. , line 22-34).

The Chris reference does not explicitly state a banking agent.

The Burt reference teaches a banking agent is provided for monitoring all financial transactions that take place as a result of the request from the user, between the information brokers and the information content suppliers (Burt: col. 5, lines 1-10, lines 19-26).

The Burt reference further teaches the invention facilitates the supplying of services offered by a network while allowing for the rapid introduction of new technology and new service applications (Burt: col. 2, lines 44-54).

Therefore it would have been obvious at the time of the invention to one of ordinary skill in the art to create the distributed platform as taught by Chris while employing a banking agent as taught by Burt in order to allow the supplying of services offered by a network while allowing for the rapid introduction of new technology and new service applications (Burt: col. 2, lines 44-54).

Claims 27-29, 13-15 are rejected under the same rationale given above. In the rejections set fourth, the examiner will address the additional limitations and point to the relevant teachings of Chris and Burt et al.

Regarding claim 27, a distributed platform as in claim 12 in which the first searching agent monitors the user interface for an acceptance message which is transferred to the content supplier selected from the second advertising board by way of the information broker selected from the first advertising board (Burt: col. 6, lines 1-29; message).

Regarding claim 28, a distributed platform as in claim 27 in which the content supplier forwards transaction details to the banking agent, said details identifying the information broker and the information broker forwards additional transaction details to the banking agent to cause a billing agent to bill the requesting user (Burt: col. 5, lines 19-26).

Regarding claim 29, a distributed platform as in claim 27 in which the content supplier causes launch of an execution agent to effect delivery of the selected service to the requesting user (Burt: col. 6, lines 41-43).

Regarding claim 13, a distributed platform as in claim 12, wherein each user has an account that is monitored by the banking agent and is up-dated as soon as response to a request for information is accepted for delivery to the user (Burt: col. 5, lines 19-26; col. 6, lines 14-22).

Regarding claim 14, a distributed platform as in claim 1, wherein a marketing agent is provided for setting up the first and second advertising boards and subsequent boards introduced onto the platform (Burt: col. 7, lines 9-21; col. 9, lines 4-9).

Regarding claim 15, a distributed platform as in claim 14, wherein the marketing agent arranges the boards according to the type of services being marketed thereon (Chris: col. 14, lines 42-65).
